Cathedral & Giralda

The Catedral de Santa María de la Sede is the largest Gothic church in the world and the third largest church after St Peter's in the Vatican and St Paul's in London. Built on the site of the main Almohad mosque, work began in the fifteenth century. Remains of the old mosque are still preserved including the Giralda, its minaret, which is the symbol of the city, and the Patio de los Naranjos, the courtyard where ritual ablutions were performed. Some of the leading artists of the time worked in the Cathedral and during its construction Renaissance, Baroque and Neoclassical elements were added. Its numerous chapels contain magnificent works of art, such as paintings by Murillo, Goya and Zurbarán; sculptures by Martínez Montañés, Juan de Mesa and Alonso Cano. In addition, you can see the tomb of Christopher Columbus. From the Giralda you can enjoy the best views of the city.

Real Alcázar

The Real Alcázar is the oldest royal palace in use in Europe. It remains a royal residence and is where Spain's royal family stay when visiting Seville. It is a group of palaces built in different historical eras whose origins date back to the tenth century. King Pedro I of Castile played a fundamental role in its history by ordering the construction of the Mudéjar palace, the main building. In addition to its beautiful rooms, you can stroll through its beautiful gardens, the second largest the city. Numerous films and series have been shot in the Alcázar, including Lawrence of Arabia, The Kingdom of Heaven and the famous series Game of Thrones.

Palacio de Dueñas

Seville residence of the House of Alba. Its style ranges from the Gothic-Mudéjar to the Renaissance, containing examples and details with sevillano touches on its bricks, roof tiles, tiles, whitewash and ceramics. It has a typical Andalusian courtyard. One of the main attractions of the Las Dueñas Palace is the important artistic and decorative collection it contains, which amounts to 1,425 pieces, including works of art, furniture and other antiques. In the nineteenth century, Dueñas was turned into apartments. Interestingly, one of the tenants, and manager of the Palacio in 1875, was Antonio Machado Álvarez, father of the famous poet Antonio Machado. Machado evokes the first eight years of his life, lived in Dueñas, in some well known verses. Numerous celebrities have visited the Palacio, including the composer Cole Porter, the musician Arthur Rubinstein, Jackie Kennedy, Prince Rainier III of Monaco and his wife Grace Kelly.

Museo Arqueológico

A journey through the civilizations of Seville The Archaeological Museum of Seville has its origins in the late nineteenth century, when a public collection of antiquities was created, most of them extracted from the Roman city Itálica. It will not be until the middle of the next century when it is consolidated and expanded with the transfer from the old Convent of La Merced to its current headquarters: the Fine Arts pavilion created by Anibal González for the Ibero-American Exposition of 1929, granted by the City Council of Seville: The Museum shares with the public the material testimonies of the different societies that succeeded each other in the territory of the current province of Seville, throughout Prehistory and Protohistory, the Roman Era (with collections coming mostly from Itálica), Late Antiquity and the Middle Ages until concluding with the Modern Age. The main collections: Prehistory, Protohistory, highlighting the Late Bronze period, with testimonies of the Phoenician and Tartessian cultures. Roman collections mostly from Itálica, with an important sample of statuary from Hadrian's time. It has medieval, Visigoth and Islamic pieces.

Monasterio Cartuja - Centro Andaluz de Arte Contemporáneo CAAC

In 1400 the La Cartuja Monastery (Monasterio de la Cartuja) in honour of Santa María de las Cuevas was founded. The body of Christopher Columbus was buried in the monastery for about 30 years, because the monks welcomed him and helped in the preparation of his trip. After the Confiscation of Mendizábal in 1835, the building lost its religious character and was sold to the English industrialist Charles Pickman who established a pottery and porcelain factory. Because of this new industrial use, stoves and fireplaces were installed. During Expo 92, it was used as the Royal Pavilion. It currently houses the Centro Andaluz de Arte Contemporáneo.
